Dear Kathryn

Health Education England's COVID-19 learning resources available globally for free

As you will be aware, the current COVID-19 situation in India has become desperate, and yesterday reached the sobering milestone of 230,000 deaths as the tragedy continues to unfold.

As Chief Executive of Health Education England (HEE) and Chair of eIntegrity's Board, respectively, we realise that many colleagues in the UK will have friends and family in India, and other countries, severely affected.

HEE's e-Learning for Healthcare (HEE e-LfH) Coronavirus resources have been made available, via eIntegrity, for the worldwide health and care workforce to access free of charge. Developed by HEE the programme covers the essential information health and care workers need to help respond to the global pandemic.

The programme currently includes:

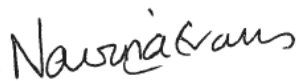

- Essential Guidance from the NHS, UK Government, WHO and BMJ
- Public Health England – Personal Protective Equipment (PPE)
- Infection Prevention and Control
- Resources for Staff Working in Critical Care Setting
- Resources for Staff Working in Acute Hospital Setting
- Resources for Staff Working in Primary Care and Community Setting
- Resources for Staff Working in a Mental Health and Learning Disabilities Setting
- Resources for Nurses, Midwives and AHPs Returning to work, being Redeployed or Up-Skilled
- Resources for other Healthcare Staff Returning to Work
- Resources for End of Life Care COVID-19
- Resources for Specific Professions
- Resources for Volunteers supporting Health and Social Care
- Critical Care and Ward-Based Equipment Guides
- Staff Wellbeing and Resilience during COVID-19

Please share the details throughout your networks with those who have colleagues, friends or family in India who might benefit from these resources. The free resources can be accessed via the eIntegrity website.

Learners in the UK should access the learning via HEE e-LfH here.
